Why choose a QSuper product in retirement

Leading retirement options

We have some of Australia's most awarded retirement solutions.¹

Helping you retire with confidence

Over 2.4 million Australians trust us to take care of more than $330 billion of their retirement savings.

A bonus when you retire

When you open a Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension, you may be eligible to receive a Retirement Bonus.

About the QSuper retirement income solutions

Tailor a retirement income solution to suit your life stage and individual retirement goals

When you reach the age you can access your super (preservation age) and retire, you can choose between opening a Retirement Income account and/or purchasing a Lifetime Pension.

Retirement Income account

A Retirement Income account gives you flexibility in retirement and lets you turn your super into a regular income stream. Investment earnings are tax-free and, as your money stays invested, your savings can continue to grow.

Lifetime Pension

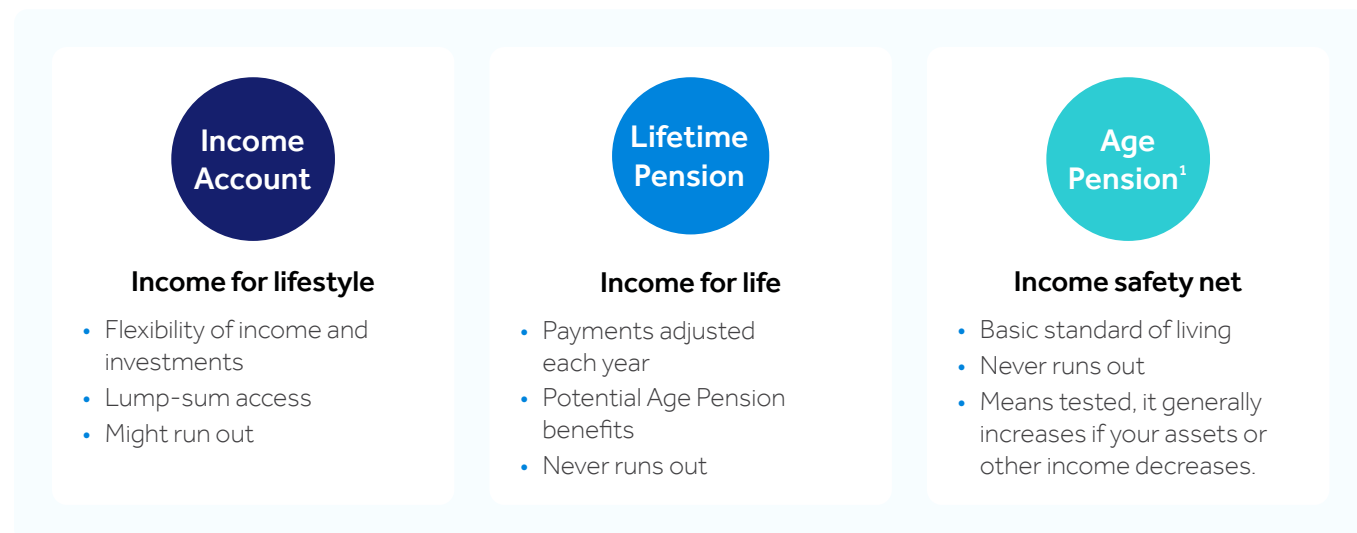

Our Lifetime Pension product gives you peace of mind knowing you'll receive tax-free, fortnightly payments for the rest of your life and for the life of your spouse, if applicable.

¹ Based on those who've received pension fund awards from SuperRatings, Chant West, Connexus Financial and Money magazine between 2015 and 2023, and awards received for the QSuper Lifetime Pension from its launch in 2021 onwards. These awards are solely statements of opinion and do not represent a recommendation to purchase, hold, or sell any securities, or make any other investment decisions. Ratings are subject to change. Ratings, awards, or investment returns are only one factor that you should consider when deciding how to invest your super. Past performance may not be a reliable indicator of future performance.

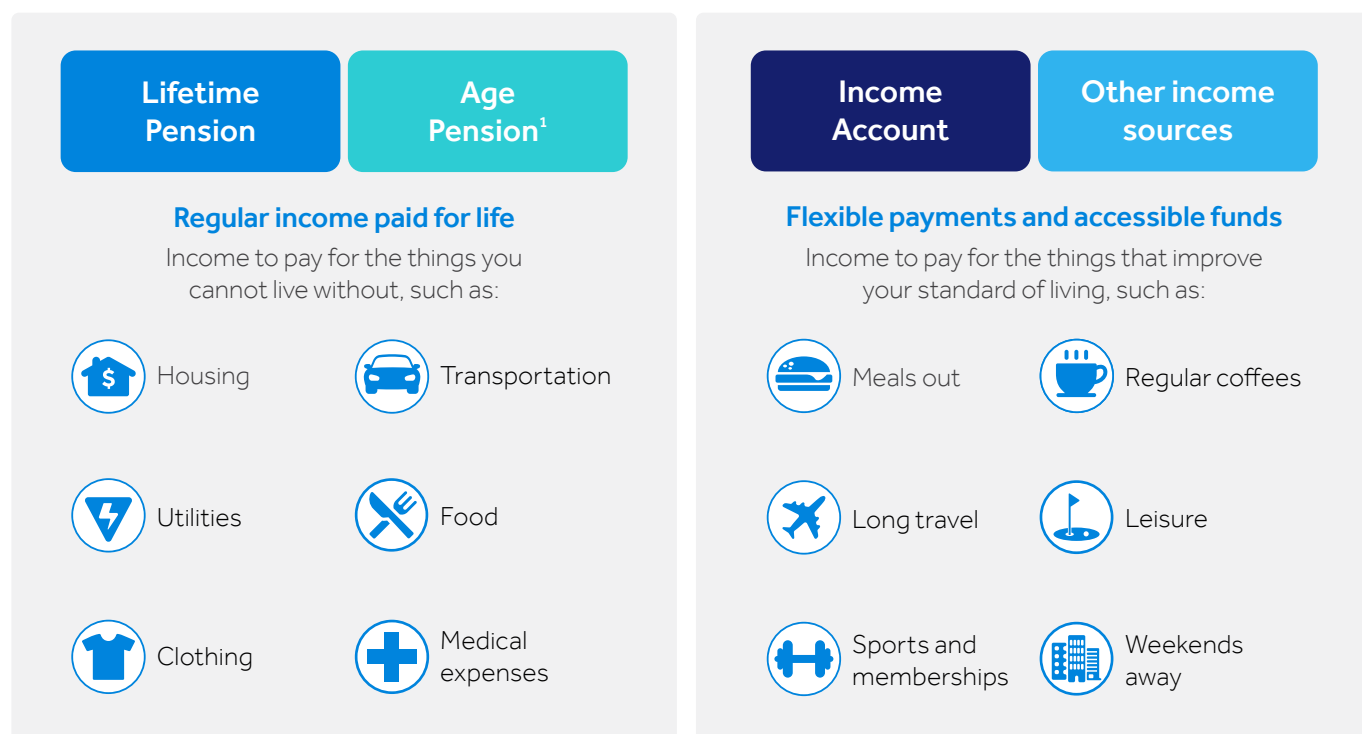

QSuper retirement income solutions

The QSuper Retirement Income account and the Lifetime Pension are designed to work together and may have added Age Pension benefits (if eligible).

Income in retirement

The QSuper Retirement Income account and Lifetime Pension are designed to work together so you can build a retirement income stream to meet your individual needs. We understand that one size doesn't fit all, so these two products provide different features to allow you to create a retirement solution that is unique to you. The example below is provided for illustrative purposes only.

¹ If applicable. Please refer to servicesaustralia.gov.au for eligibility criteria.

Retirement Income account

Flexible income for when you need it

The award-winning QSuper Retirement Income account allows you to turn your super into a regular stream of income while it can continue to grow.

It gives you flexibility with your payment amount and frequency and access to additional lump sum withdrawals as needed. These could be used to fund holidays, home renovations, a new car, or anything else you want to purchase.

Keep in mind, additional withdrawals and the frequency of these will impact how long the money in your Retirement Income account will last.

Key features:

Turn your super into income

With a Retirement Income account, you can turn your super into an income stream. As your money stays invested, your savings could continue to grow.

Choose flexible payment options

Control how much and how often you are paid, with the option to increase payments each July in line with inflation.

Access lump sum payments at any time

Withdraw extra money at any time, and easily manage your account via Member Online.

Choose from flexible investment options

Whether you want us to manage your investments or you want to choose your own investment strategy for your super, we've got a wide range of investment options to suit.

Enjoy potential tax benefits

A Retirement Income account can help maximise your savings with tax-free investment earnings and no tax on payments or withdrawals after you turn 60.

Nominate a beneficiary

You may be able to nominate a reversionary beneficiary or make a binding death benefit nomination.

Lifetime Pension

For income that lasts a lifetime

The Lifetime Pension product gives you peace of mind knowing you'll receive tax-free, fortnightly payments for the rest of your life and for the life of your spouse, if applicable.

It has less flexibility than a Retirement Income account, with no access to withdrawals of your capital after the 6-month cooling-off period. However, it provides you with the certainty of receiving a fortnightly income for the rest of your life and the life of your spouse, if applicable. This certainty could be useful to support ongoing expenses like utilities, health expenses, and transport, giving you the security you need to plan ahead.

Key features:

An income for life

No matter how long you live, you will receive tax-free, fortnightly payments for the rest of your life and the life of your spouse, if applicable.

Potential Age Pension benefits

You could potentially qualify for the Age Pension or receive a higher benefit than you may otherwise have qualified for, if eligible.

Spouse protection option

Payments can continue to be paid to your spouse after you pass away.

Money-back protection

If you or your spouse (provided the spouse protection option has been chosen) pass away before receiving payments equal to the original purchase price, the difference will be paid as a death benefit to your beneficiaries or estate.¹

Cooling-off period

A six-month cooling-off period gives you time to decide whether the Lifetime Pension is right for you. After that, it is a permanent purchase.

¹ Subject to the government's Capital Access Schedule regulations. More details in the Product Disclosure Statement for Income Account and Lifetime Pension available on the QSuper website.

Features and benefits of our retirement products

You can open a Retirement Income account once you've reached the age when you can access your super (preservation age) and permanently retired, or ceased an employment arrangement at or after age 60, or at age 65. To purchase a Lifetime Pension you will also need to be aged between 60 and up to your 80th birthday. The features of the two income streams are highlighted below:

Walter's story

Age	67
Goals	Plans to retire next year
Super	$550,000
Assets	Owens his own home, and $150,000 in other assets (vehicle and household contents)
Income	He has no additional income sources

As Walter has total assets of $700,000, he would ordinarily not receive any Age Pension entitlement.

However, he has decided to purchase a Lifetime Pension for $250,000 and open a QSuper Retirement Income account with the remaining $300,000.

As the Lifetime Pension purchase amount is assessed (for Australian Government pension assets test purposes) at 60% of the purchase price, this will result in a lower assessable asset value.

By opening a Lifetime Pension, Walter will not only receive fortnightly payments for the rest of his life, he is now also eligible for the Age Pension and a Commonwealth Pensioner Concession Card. This is due to the assets means test rules that apply to the Lifetime Pension product. As a result of the reduction in assessable assets, Walter's Age Pension entitlement has increased from nil to $7,566,¹ and his overall annual income in the first year has increased by $13,366.

By combining the Lifetime Pension with a QSuper Retirement Income account, Walter has the peace of mind that he will receive payments for the rest of his life, while also having the flexibility to withdraw extra money from his Retirement Income account when needed.

Initial funds	Current plan	New plan

Case study: Flexibility of layered income

Ben's story

Age60

GoalsOngoing income and flexibility to make withdrawals

Super$500,000

Ben retires at 60 with $500,000 in super.

He decides he wants the certainty of receiving payments from his super for the rest of his life, as well as the flexibility of being able to withdraw extra money at any time.

Ben uses our Retirement Income calculator to get an understanding of how much income he could expect and how using different types of retirement income products may impact that outcome.

After his financial advice appointment he transfers $250,000 to a Lifetime Pension and $250,000 to a Retirement Income account.

Because Ben is over 60, his payments will be tax-free throughout his retirement. While Ben's Retirement Income account allows him to take extra money out whenever he needs, it runs out when he reaches age 85. Ben's Lifetime Pension then continues to provide him with an ongoing income.

The QSuper Accumulation account is used to hold your money before the Lifetime Pension purchase and will be closed once your Lifetime Pension starts. If you don't want to be contacted to open the QSuper Accumulation account, you'll need to complete and send us the Open an Accumulation Account for Lifetime Pension Applicants form. You'll find this form on the back of the QSuper Product Disclosure Statement for Accumulation Account at qsuper.qld.gov.au/pds

Note that if you are not eligible to join QSuper, you cannot open a QSuper Retirement Income account. You may be eligible to open an Australian Retirement Trust Super Savings Retirement Income account. You can find more information about it at australianretirementtrust.com.au/retirement/getting-ready/income-accounts

Funding your account

Your chosen retirement income streams can be opened with existing money you hold with us as well as any additional contributions you're eligible to make, or rollovers from other funds. The opening balance just needs to be at least $30,000 for a Retirement Income account and $10,000 for a Lifetime Pension.

Before you open your Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension, you should consolidate¹ all the money you want added to your new account, as once it starts you can't add extra money. This money can be from any other super funds you may have, or from your personal finances outside of super;² and must be first contributed to a QSuper Accumulation account.

Please note, if you transfer all funds from your Accumulation account to your new income stream/s, your Accumulation account will close and any insurance cover you hold will be cancelled. You must keep a minimum balance of $10,000 in your Accumulation account if you want it to remain open to keep your insurance, but bear in mind we will automatically cancel your insurance cover if we don't receive any money into your account for 13 months.³ You can prevent this from happening by permanently opting in to insurance or by adding funds to your account.

Tax deductions

If you have made any after-tax contributions to your QSuper Accumulation account and wish to claim a tax deduction, you will need to notify us before your Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension is set up. You can let us know you'd like to do this via Member Online or by completing the Notice of Intent to Claim or Vary a Deduction for Personal Super Contributions form.

Once the funds are transferred to a Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension, you won't be able to claim a tax deduction on these contributions.

¹ Before you consolidate your super, please consider if the timing is right and if you will lose access to benefits such as insurance or pension options, or if there are tax implications. ² Subject to eligibility. ³ There are various other circumstances when your insurance will end, see the Insurance Guide for more information.

Payments from your income streams

Lifetime Pension

Payments from your Lifetime Pension will be made fortnightly and the amount you receive is based on your age (or the age of the youngest person if the spouse option is chosen), starting balance, and whether you have selected the single or spouse option. Your payments will be adjusted effective 1 July each year. As this is based on the pool's financial results during the previous year, keep in mind that payments may go up or down.

Retirement Income account

Flexible payment options are available for your regular payments. You can choose from fortnightly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or yearly payments. When you set up your account, you can let us know when you would like your payments to start. You must receive at least one payment every financial year.

You control how much you get paid per year, within government limits. You can either choose the minimum allowed, or a higher specified amount to withdraw every year. You can also request a lump sum payment from your Retirement Income account when needed.¹

Minimum amount

The minimum amount of income you can withdraw each year is an age-based percentage amount. The amount is calculated when you set up your account and then at the start of each financial year.

Age	Default drawdown rates
Under 65	4%
65 to 74	5%
75 to 79	6%
80 to 84	7%
85 to 89	9%
90 to 94	11%
95+	14%

Specified amount

You also have the option to nominate a specific amount to be paid in a financial year and can choose to have this automatically increased with inflation each financial year. Keep in mind, the specified amount needs to be more than the minimum amount.

¹ You will need to keep a minimum of $10,000 in your QSuper account if you would like to make a lump sum withdrawal. This minimum balance will apply unless you are withdrawing all of your funds and closing your account.

Set an investment strategy

How your super is invested during your working life may not be appropriate for you in retirement as your goals and appetite for risk may be different. How actively involved you'd like to be with this in retirement compared to your working life may change as well.

For the Lifetime Pension, your money is combined with the money of other Lifetime Pension members and managed by us on your behalf. The Lifetime Pension pool is invested in the Balanced Risk-Adjusted option and you cannot choose your own investment strategy.

Choose from our investment options

Your QSuper Retirement Income account gives you access to eight different Diversified investment options, and seven Asset class options. You can select just one or multiple options for your funds to be invested in.

If you don't make an investment choice, your funds will be invested in the Balanced Risk-Adjusted option which is the default option for QSuper Income accounts. Refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for Income Account and Lifetime Pension for more information.

Where do you want your Income account payments to come from?

You can let us know which investment options you would like us to take your payments from. If you don't specify a preference, we will take your payments from the next option you're invested in, based on the default payment order. Refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for Income Account and Lifetime Pension for more information.

You can also use the nominated or percentage payment preference approach.

- The nominated approach allows you to request we take your payments from specific investment options. We'll take your payments from the investment option you've told us to take them from first until there's no money left in that option. We'll then start taking payments from the option you've nominated next.
- The percentage approach allows you to nominate the percentage of each investment option you want to make up every payment. Your nominated total should equal 100%. (For example, if you've chosen two investment options you can elect for 50% of your payment to come from each option).

Nominate who gets your super

By the time you reach retirement, your superannuation could be one of your largest assets. It doesn't automatically form part of your estate, so it's important to think about who will receive your money when you pass away. With a Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension, you have a few options available to you.

	Retirement Income account	Lifetime Pension
Reversionary nomination A reversionary nomination allows you to nominate one dependent beneficiary to receive your super death benefit as ongoing income payments or as a lump sum. This nomination doesn't expire, and you can make changes at any time.	✓	✗
Spouse protection option If you choose the spouse protection option, payments will continue to be made to your spouse after you pass away. This nomination is only available on commencement and can not be changed/added at a later date.	✗	✓
Binding death benefit nomination A binding death benefit nomination allows you to nominate dependant/s or your legal personal representative to receive your super but does not apply if you have an eligible reversionary nomination or selected the spouse protection option. A valid nomination must be renewed every three years and can be renewed through Member Online . You can renew at any time before expiry, if there are no changes.	✓	✓
No nomination If you decide not to make a nomination, your super must be paid to an eligible recipient, such as your spouse and/or dependant/s, your legal personal representative or any other person deemed appropriate by the Trustee, in accordance with relevant law.	✓	✓

Other important information

Proving your ID

To set up a Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension, you'll need to confirm your identity. You can do this by providing your driver's licence or passport details with your application or by emailing or posting a certified copy of your identification document to us. For the Lifetime Pension, if you choose the spouse protection option, we'll need to verify your spouse's age and identity before we can commence your Lifetime Pension.

Tax file number declaration form

If you're under age 60 and opening a Retirement Income account, you'll also need to complete a Tax file number declaration form as a portion of the payment may be taxed.

Where we make payments

Your Retirement Income account and/or Lifetime Pension payments can only be made to an Australian bank account in your name. This can also be a joint account.
